

Neil is a member of the Industry Liaison team at Gard, with a particular focus and interest in renewable energy generation and the sustainability of shipping. Prior to joining Gard, Neil was a commercial barrister with 17 years' experience in international litigation at London-based chambers, 4 Pump Court and 36 Stone, with expertise in maritime law (dry and wet), shipbuilding and international trade. Before qualifying as a barrister, he worked as an investment banker at JPMorgan specialising in early-stage technology companies. Neil completed an executive MBA at Surrey Business School, which included a dissertation on attitudes to sustainability in the containerized transportation sector.